Thank you for being part of our family
For almost 20 years, Main Line Animal Rescue has helped thousands of animals find new homes. Every year, more people are discovering the countless benefits of adopting a shelter pet. Whether this is your first time or have a long history of sharing your life with rescue dogs and cats, MLAR appreciates your compassion and willingness to help animals in need.

When you adopt a pet from MLAR, we become partners for the life of the pet and will do everything within reason to support your ongoing commitment with this animal. You are now part of the MLAR family.

What it costs:
Main Line Animal Rescue receives no state or federal funding. And since we do not have an adoption fee, we rely solely on donations. Every day, we accept animals with medical conditions that no other shelter would consider. We believe that these animals also deserve a chance at a good life with a loving family. Our commitment to the animals we rescue comes at a great cost, emotionally and fiscally every year. We are happy to bear 100% of the emotional burden, but we need your help with the financial support. We cannot do it without you. Please consider making a donation today!

Join us:
Become part of our robust volunteer program, attend our events and support our mission. You can help support the next generation of animals who need our help.

Meet the volunteers, who care for the emotional well-being of the animals, while our clinic staff works tirelessly to address the physical concerns. Meet the cats who jump into the volunteers’ arms knowing she is loved for the first time. Meet a dog, whose family moved away, leaving him behind at age 12, to find his own way. These heart wrenching stories become our warming stories as the animals move towards a happy ending in a forever home.
GET READY FOR YOUR NEW DOG!

This is a very exciting time and you are getting a new pup!

We send home with your dog:
- Collar: We will give you a collar when you pick up
- Six-foot leash: We will give you a 6-foot leash, but you might want to consider buying a 15-foot training leash (we strongly suggest that you NOT use Flexible (retractable) leash)

What you need to buy for your dog:
- Food and water bowls
- Food: canned and/or dry.
  - We will send you home with a small bag of the dry food that he has been eating to transfer him to your selection
- ID tag with your phone number
  - We will attach a MLAR ID tag to the collar we send home and ask that you keep it on the collar
- Hard plastic carrier or foldable metal crate (we strongly recommend crate training)
- Dog bed
- Dog shampoo
- Nail clippers (especially for puppies, as you want them to get used to it from the time they are pups!)
- Canine toothbrush and toothpaste
- Brush or comb (depends on your pet’s coat length and type)
- Super-absorbent paper towels, sponge and scrub brush
- Non-toxic cleanser
- Enzymatic odor neutralizer
- Plastic poop baggies (biodegradable ones are best) or pooper scooper
- Absorbent house-training pads
- Variety of toys without squeakers (a ball, chew toy, like Nylabones, and puzzle toy are good starts)
- Variety of training treats (see notes under feeding)
- Dog First-aid supplies
- Baby gate(s)

All About Collars: We will send you home with a “martingale” type collar. We prefer these because there are no breakable parts and they work as a “training collar” and your dog cannot back out of them if he tries to get away. Watch this brief video of how to use them. Your dog should have ID on at all times. Even if you use an underground fence system and they wear that collar, they should have a regular collar with MLAR ID, your personal ID, as well as a county license from your county.

We do NOT recommend prong collars, chain “choke” training collars or shock collars.

When fitting your dog for a traditional (not martingale type) collar, be careful that it cannot slip over your dog’s head if they try to pull away from you. Your dog could run off with no collar/ID!

Body harnesses are the best option for walking a dog. Mesh Body Harness, Easy Walk Harness, Nylabones, Enzymatic odor neutralizer
Sure Fit Harness are some of the most basic. Tugging and pulling on a collar puts extra stress on the windpipe and can irritate and cause a coughing episode or potentially cause a life-threatening trachea collapse in some dogs.

Haltis Headcollars are an excellent way to control a pulling dog to enjoy your walk. They take some getting used to, but with the right amount of “bribery” snacks, they soon adjust to them.

All About Leashes:
Flexible (retractable) leashes are NOT recommended, as they often break, give too much access to your dog (dogs can run out into traffic or up to a non-dog friendly dog before you have a chance to reel them in). They are for experienced dog walkers ONLY. We do not recommend that you use a retractable leash, which can be dangerous to people and dogs.

All About Underground fence system: If you do have an underground fence system and you do not have a working collar on your dog, then you have no fence at all. Do not assume that your dog knows the boundaries, one running squirrel or rabbit can entice them right through it and into a dangerous situation. Think of collars like your everyday jewelry, your dog feels naked without it and keep them on whenever they are outside! Also mark your calendars to check batteries on the same day you do monthly heartworm/flea and tick treatments!

Where will your dog sleep?
Some people like to have the dog sleep in the bed with them and since dogs are pack animals, they are delighted! Other people set up the dog crate near their beds, or a dog bed on the floor. You can choose whatever works best for you! If you need an allergy-free zone or relief from a snoring dog, then let the dogs sleep elsewhere (your sofa is a good option, or a dog bed or in a crate.)

One bed/sofa rule for sure; If your dog ever growls at you from the bed, it’s time to get them off and keep them OFF! Remind them that this is unacceptable behavior and keep them off.

If you have an older dog that has trouble getting in and out of bed without your help, it might be wise to make them a comfy spot on the floor. A soft dog bed or a crib mattress covered with a twin fleece sheet is a great option! You do not want them falling off of the bed during the night.

Your Relationship with your Veterinarian:
If you might already have a vet that you love, so stick with them! If you don't have a vet, find someone you really like and respect! There are many veterinarians in practice, so if you feel uncomfortable about something, talk to your vet, and if it doesn't feel right to you, then get another opinion.

You should bring your dog to see the vet at least once a year. They will know if your dog need vaccines or a dental cleaning (small dogs need them yearly as they get older). They will test for Heartworm, bloodwork, etc. You can also purchase Flea and Tick and heartworm preventatives at your vet and YES, you do need to keep them on that 12 months a year! If your dog looks and acts healthy, that's great, but they should still have an annual healthy dog check up!
While there have your vet scan your dog for a microchip, if he doesn’t find it then it has migrated somewhere else on your dog. Every animal that leaves MLAR has a microchip, so if there is not one found, please come see us and we will microchip your pet again at no cost.

Emergency Plan:
Do you have an emergency plan? What animal emergency hospital is your doctor affiliated with?
Do you have a first aid kit for your pet? A disaster kit? Make one up and keep it in a safe place. No power for 10 days can be tricky with a pet!

Dog/Puppy Proof Your Home!
(even if your pup is not a “puppy”):
Puppies are notorious for chewing everything they can sink their teeth into. Even many adult dogs will check out their surroundings by tasting. It’s best to put safety first when you bring a dog of any age into your home.

Make sure there aren’t any exposed electrical cords for your dog to chew. You can get covers for electrical cords. You can also spray electrical cords and similar hazards with products such as Bitter Apple, which are non-toxic but taste unpleasant. That will discourage all but the most serious chewers.

Put breakable or edible items up on top of shelves where dogs can’t reach. If you are adopting a large dog (Lab types) we urge you to never put your dinner on the counter to thaw! Counter Surfing is the sport of choice for many!

Got a Kitty at home?....keep kitty litter boxes out of reach. One good idea is to put a baby gate across the door of the rooms where you keep litter boxes. Attach the gate high enough on the bottom that Kitty can get under, but not your new dog! This also gives your kitty a chance to take a break from your dog, if he wants to...let him have his space!

Walk your fence line again! Someone from MLAR might have come to your house to check your fence, but we can guarantee that your new dog will find a hole, if there is one! Be sure to walk around with them in the yard and check out any area that looks interesting to them. Look for things the dog can climb on – (such as a wood pile) and then climb over the fence.

Household Chemical and plants: Make sure any dangerous household chemicals are stored in a top cabinet – or better yet, go “green” and try to use only non-toxic, earth-friendly (and dog-friendly!) products.

I/We understand that these zoonotic diseases may be transmissible to anyone, but people with suppressed immune systems (due to immune disorder, cancer treatment, organ transplantations, etc.) are at greater risk, and I/we hold MLAR harmless. 17. The ADOPTER(S) hereby declare(s) that no representations about the nature of the dog, or any representation regarding the nature and extent of the legal liability or financial responsibility have induced the ADOPTER(S) to make this release and indemnity agreement. Initial_____

Initial_____

19. In the event that MLAR brings an action or proceeding to enforce any of the terms of this Agreement, or for damages for breach of the Agreement, MLAR shall be entitled to recover its reasonable attorneys’ fees and costs incurred as a result of such action. The terms of this Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and ADOPTER(S) agree to be subject to the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Courts (including both the Commonwealth and Federal Courts) for purposes of MLAR enforcing the terms of this agreement. FEEDING YOUR DOG

Dog Foods:
We will send home a small amount of the food that your dog has been eating at MLAR. Assuming a traditional MLAR diet was given (and the dog is not on a prescription diet) here are some guidelines in choosing a good and balanced food.

Avoid foods with corn or wheat (often cause allergies) and be sure that the first ingredient is a protein, not a “by product”. Check out the DogFoodAdvisor for some tips on dog foods. Some dogs are pickers, and some are g抟lers...Please be aware if you have another dog in the house and allow them to eat separately and at their own “speed” until you get to know them.

Feeding Schedules:
Before putting the bowl on the floor ask your dog for a SIT and WAIT (building up to 30 seconds but start at 1 second!). Good habits start on day ONE!

Get your dog on a feeding schedule. Put your dog's bowl down, allow him 15 minutes to eat it and then remove it. Always feed in the same place (multiple dogs should be fed separately) This will make their bowel movements more regular, help you monitor how much your dog is eating. It will also help you notice if he is not feeling well and keep him from hounding you all day for food!

We recommend feeding twice daily, at your schedule.
Dogs should always have free access to water.

Treats:
Easy on the treats, they are often full of unwanted, unneeded calories! If you like to have a treat to work with your dog, hold back on a little of their dry dog food from breakfast/dinner and use that as a training treat. Consider it part of his overall meal plan etc. Read what Victoria Stilwell recommends)

For Chewers: We recommend a flavored Nylabone in a size large enough that there is no chance of choking. For serious chewers try a black Kong, these are the ones specifically made for the master chewers! We do NOT recommend Raw Hide or anything that potentially gets gummy in their tummy (or in their mouth). Avoid anything you may have trouble taking away from your new dog, if he values it too much, you might end up getting into a fight with him...not worth it! Teach them how to “Take it and Drop it” by offering a trade
Feeding Amounts & Transitions
The food we use at MLAR is Nutrisource Adult Chicken and Rice Formula. If you intend to switch to a new food, please use what we give you to transition to your dog's new food, using these guidelines so it does not upset their stomach.
Day 1 – Mix 20% of the new food with 80% of the old.
Day 2 – Mix 40% of the new food with 60% of the old.
Day 3 – Mix 60% of the new food with 40% of the old.
Day 4 – Mix 80% of the new food with 20% of the old.
Day 5 – Feed 100% of the new food.

CHILDREN AND DOGS

We do our best to match children-friendly dogs with families with children. Still, it’s very important to slowly and gently introduce your dog to life with children. Your dog is in an unfamiliar place and may feel nervous. Caution is important until your new dog settles in. Here are tips to remember:

Supervise all interactions between children and your dog. You should always do this – but it’s especially important in the first couple of weeks.

Watch for signs of stress in the dog. These include licking his lips, pulling away from the children, or avoiding eye contact. If the dog’s muscles are tense, he may be feeling cornered. A wagging tail isn’t always the sign of a happy dog – it can be a sign of tension (especially if the dog’s muscles look tense). Look for the signs of a relaxed, happy dog. That usually includes a dog whose lips are gently parted in a “doggie smile,” a softly wagging tail, and relaxed muscles. Relaxed dogs are sometimes described as looking like a “noodle” – soft, pliable, happy.

Teach the children to approach the dog gently and respectfully. Don’t allow the children to hug the dog or put their face near the dog – instead, teach them to pet him underneath his chin or on his chest. Children should never be allowed to crawl on the dog, pull his tail or ears, pick him up, or “ride” him. One child at a time should interact with the dog – no crowding around him.

Don’t allow games that can escalate. No tug-of-war, no chasing, no screaming, no running. Don’t let children (or adults, for that matter) touch the dog while he’s eating or sleeping.

Educate your children to be careful around anyone or anything that is strange to them: people, dogs, elephants, plants….it doesn’t matter what or who it is. If they don’t know a lot about them, they should proceed with caution or check in with an adult!

WHAT TO EXPECT ONCE YOU GET HOME:

Moving is stressful. Dogs exhibit stress in different ways, but the most common are diarrhea, panting, pacing and loss of appetite. If these symptoms do not diminish within a day, please contact your veterinarian as a more serious medical issue may be happening.

Everything is new. Your house has all new smells, sights and sounds that can frighten your dog.
- Be sure to allow your dog enough quiet time to relax and adjust to his new environment. Also allow him to explore his new surroundings, inside and outside, all the while keeping a watchful eye to make sure he does not get into trouble.
- Hold off on any long walks, trips to the park, meeting the neighborhood and other activities that may over stimulate your dog until he feels comfortable and settled.

Keep him safe. Your dog does not know the area in which he is now living, so be extra careful to keep him secure in the house and yard.
- Leash walk your dog, even in a fenced-in yard, until he feels comfortable with his surroundings. A large open space may be too intimidating, and your dog may try to escape. Make sure the gates to your yard are always closed and locked.
- Take extra precaution when introducing your dog to other animals in the house. If you have another dog, the other dog may try to establish “alpha” status and protect his territory right away.
- MLAR does not recommend giving any raw hide or chew bone to your dog as this is a common source of disagreements between dogs and can be very harmful to your dog’s health.

Don’t Spoil. You want to show your new dog love and kindness, but don’t spoil him!
- Set house rules for your new dog and make sure your whole family is in agreement.
- Be consistent with what is allowed and what is not (i.e. getting on the couch, drinking out of toilets, etc.). Be firm, but reward for positive behavior as much as possible.
- Create a structure for your dog’s day. Your dog will be more comfortable in your home if he can predict certain activities such as feeding and walks.
- Never neglect an existing dog for your new dog. This will create jealously between the dogs and your existing dog may resent the new addition to the pack.
INTRODUCING YOUR DOG TO OTHER PETS

DOGS: Most dogs love the company of other dogs. An introduction, done right from the beginning, is a big part of what determines future success in your animal blended family.

Introduce your new dog to your existing dog on neutral territory. We require a “meet and greet” with your existing dog and the new dog at our shelter. This “meet and greet” not only determines if the animals are likely to be compatible, it’s also a great way to introduce your new pet to the other dogs in your family.

Go for a walk. When you get home, it can be a good idea to take both dogs for a walk (if you live in a quiet neighborhood) off property. If you have a shy dog maybe a backyard walk is better. Best not to entice them with limits beyond your home.

Pay special attention to your first dog. A good rule of thumb is to give the existing dog 75 percent of the attention for the first two weeks. The last thing you want to do is to have the older dog feel left out and jealous of the new dog. If you follow the “75 Percent Rule,” you’ll see your older dog visibly relax after several days, and you can begin giving both dogs equal attention.

Getting less attention than your current family dog receives for a while won’t upset your new dog: after all, he’s used to sharing attention with dozens of other dogs at the shelter. He’ll just be happy to have a great home with a loving human and a dog buddy.

Most dogs become deeply devoted to their new four-footed family member within a couple of weeks. Dogs can do things for each other that no human can do, and almost always two dogs really are twice as fun as one and generally half of the work (they exercise themselves).

CATS: Many dogs and cats end up as friends. Once the dog realizes that the cat runs the household, usually everything works out.

Give your cat quiet places where the dog isn’t allowed. Do be sure that the cat has quiet places for herself where the dog can’t bother her. We recommend that your cat has a room or at least some perches where the dog can’t reach, so he can have some relaxation time when the dog can’t bother her. Make sure your dog can’t get into her kitty litter.

No chasing or harassing! It’s not fair to your kitty to let your dog chase or harass her. One technique is to keep a leash on your dog when you are there to supervise, so you can grab the leash and redirect your dog’s energy to a toy or other activity if he’s getting too rambunctious.
Watch carefully to make sure it's all in fun. Sometimes, dogs are predatory around cats. Watch carefully to make sure that your dog doesn't try to hurt the cat.

TIPS FOR SHY DOGS

By now you have heard that puppy mill dogs and others sometimes have issues, such as being a flight risk, never having been in a home, needing to adjust, and they may or may not be potty trained. Yet, still you are listening to your heart's offer to give one of these dogs a safe, happy, and loved life. So with gratitude, we offer these tips to help you through your first weeks and with the promise you will have a wonderful relationship with your new dog.

~KEEP YOUR DOG'S WORLD SMALL~

"Keep Your Dog's World Small" This is the starting point for all decisions you will be making as you introduce your dog into your home. If you have adopted a puppy mill dog it makes sense when you think about your dog's past life in a far too small cage in the mill. Your dog has little or no experience in large areas and can be easily overwhelmed. Our goal is to slowly introduce your home and yard while the dog bonds with you and your family. Thinking about what your dog has to assimilate during the first hours of the first day with you: a car ride (What is happening to me now?, Where did my barking buddies go?), new people (Will they be nice to me?), a new home (What is this building? I can't get up these steps. I am afraid of what is on the other side of that door!), and a special place to potty (Man, I have to go NOW!), will help you understand that just opening up your whole house and whole yard may just be too much for your dog to handle all at once.

TIP: KEEP YOUR DOG ON A LEASH, INSIDE AND OUT.
Think of the leash as an umbilical cord, it is the life line between you and your dog. Your dog will be good with a leash because the volunteers at MLAR have already trained him/her. The leash sends signals from you to your dog. It says, "I will protect you, so stay close to me; Come with me, I want to show you something good." etc. Doing this begins the bonding process immediately. Additionally, when you walk your dog with a leash in your fenced in yard, you will absolutely know when your dog has gone to the bathroom (a "treat"able act) and potty training also begins immediately. Conversely, you will know if and when your dog goes inside the home and can immediately redirect him/her to the outside.

TIP: USE ONLY ONE DOOR IN YOUR HOME
to take your dog outside/ DO NOT LET YOUR DOG KNOW ABOUT OTHER DOORS/place reminders at these other doors like baby gates or chairs. During the first months, the flight response in a puppy mill dog is at its highest. This is not because your dog doesn't like you and wants to escape; it is because your dog isn't over his/her past experience in the mill. If a puppy mill dog sees an opening, he/she is likely to take it. A majority of lost dogs are lost by dashing out these other doors that are not within the fenced in yard. The whole family needs to be on board here! This is another reason why keeping your dog on a leash and working on bonding with your dog is so important. Bonding is when a dog will obey a command from you and choose not to do what he really wanted to do. In addition, the highest care must be made that lawn and pool personnel close and lock gates in your yard. A good practice is to ask these people to ring your bell before entering your yard so that you do not put your dog outside while they are there, and can ensure that the gates are locked after they leave. If not at home, work out a notification system so that you know that they have been at your home.

TIP: STAY IN YOUR FENCED YARD
The desire to walk your dog in your neighborhood can be overwhelming, but don’t do it for now.

Again, go back to our mantra: Keep your dog’s world small. It is much easier to start slowly and build up your dog’s confidence in you, rather than try to gain it once your dog has been startled or you have led him/her into something that produced a fearful response. There is a potential for an accidental run away, so, in general save the walks until you are very sure that your dog can handle it. Remember, puppy mill dogs startle easily. A car’s backfire can sound like a gun, and puppy mill dogs having heard enough of those sounds, are extremely afraid of sound like these.

TIP: PLAN AHEAD WHERE YOUR DOG’S "SMALL WORLD" WILL BE IN YOUR HOME
Many people have their door to the fenced yard in their kitchens and family rooms. These are generally the rooms where people begin with their dogs. If you plan to take your dog to the bedroom at night, that is great also. But that is enough of your house for your dog to know at this time.

~ALL DOGS ARE DIFFERENT~
Yes, all dogs, even from puppy mills, are different, and there are just not one set of rules that fits every situation and every dog. That is why "Over the Mill" was formed. MLAR's OTM is an email based support group where you can ask advice from your fellow MLAR adopters who may have experienced the same situation facing you. When you ask a question, you will get numerous answers based upon the writers' experience. In addition, OTM meets once a month with our dogs for training, Q&A, and doggie playtime. Everyone is welcome, no commitments or obligations. You may just want to read what we are talking about from time to time in your e-mail.

Here are some more tips from "Over the Mill" members:

TIP: KEEP YOUR VOICES CALM, SOFT AND SOOTHING.
Your dog is gathering information on you during this time. He/she needs to know that they are in a loving environment now.

TIP: TEACH YOUR DOG TO LOVE YOUR HANDS.
In the mill, the millers handle the dogs in rough and painful ways, so it is a natural response for a dog to wonder about your hands. Always approach your dog with your palms up, not down (looks like a hit is coming). Massaging, cuddling, soothing, stroking is the way to go. Some adopters even feed their dogs in their hands in order to equate their hands with something good—food.

TIP: USE ONLY POSITIVE TRAINING TECHNIQUES.
Positive reinforcement is the only humane way to train a pet. If you are not sure of how to go about this type of training, contact OTM for help.
